THE NATIONAL EFFECTIVE TEACHING INSTITUTE

21st Annual National Effective Teaching Institute (NETI)

Thursday, June 7 - Saturday, June 9
Grand Hyatt, San Antonio

The National Effective Teaching Institute (NETI) is a three-day workshop held each year just prior to the Annual Meeting of the American Society for Engineering Education. For information about the NETI content and facilitators, a summary of past workshop evaluations, the enrollment procedure, and the time and location of the next offering of the workshop, visit NETI.

The Dean of Engineering nominates faculty to attend
Next session: Thursday, March 15

Topic: Discussion on doing collaborative academic research projects and applying for the Academic and Scholarly Excellence funds, due Oct 1.
Examples of Rubrics Used to Assess ABET Student Outcomes in a Capstone Course

Rubrics:

- Descriptive scoring schemes that are developed by teachers or other evaluators to guide the analysis of the products or processes of students' efforts.

- Presents a continuum of performance levels, defined in terms of selected criteria, towards full attainment or development of the targeted skills.

- Provides qualitative information regarding the observed performance in relation to a desired one.
Examples of Rubrics Used to Assess ABET Student Outcomes in a Capstone Course

Rubrics:
• Used for subjective and authentic assessments

• Learners are clearer about the expectations prior to assessment and are clear about their areas of weakness and strength after the assessment

• Using rubrics for assessment standardizes the evaluation of the assessments, and reduces the burden on faculty time

Rubrics used to help ABET data-gathering process

- Used to evaluate the direct evidence of student work, that is, “grading” the student’s progress on meeting the assigned learning outcomes

- Evaluation at the level of a program’s Capstone course is subjective
  - Deals with how well the student project groups can define and solve a technical problem
  - Doing as objective as possible evaluation of the student’s work requires the use of standardized rubrics

Rubrics:
- Analytical vs. Holistic
- Formative vs. Summative

Rubrics:
- Analytical – also called quantitative - usually preferred when a fairly focused type of response is required

<tr>
<th>ABET Outcome</th>

<th>Superior (10)</th>
<th>Excellent (9)</th>
<th>Good (8)</th>
<th>Fair (6-7)</th>
<th>Poor (0-5)</th>

<td>90-99% on exam</td>
<td>80-89% on exam</td>
<td>etc.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Examples of Rubrics Used to Assess ABET Student Outcomes in a Capstone Course

• Holistic – also called qualitative - are used to evaluate or assess the whole process, performance, or product

• Based on the idea that instructors “know quality when they see it”

• Faculty should write thorough narrative descriptions for excellent work, down to poor work, incorporating each attribute into the description

If you, as a faculty, are developing your own rubrics, Rocco suggests following these guidelines:

- Outline your expectations.
- Divide expectations into traits for a quality performance or product.
- Decide on a hierarchy of traits.
- Decide on the rubric format.
- If you are using a holistic rubric, create sample products for each level of competence.
- Share and discuss the rubric with students.
- Use the rubric.
- Modify the rubric as needed.
